

RATIONALE

At Salvado Catholic College, Christ is the foundation of all that we do. All members of the Salvado Catholic College community are committed to reflecting Gospel values in everyday activities and personal encounters. The harassment, unlawful discrimination against, victimisation or bullying of any person at Salvado Catholic College is contrary to the Gospel and the vision for Catholic education.

Catholic schools offer a genuine educational choice in our pluralistic society. Catholic schools make a distinctive contribution to the provision of educational excellence in Western Australia. They do so within the context of Catholic teaching and practice. (Bishop's Mandate, para. 6)

Respect for the human person considers the other 'another self.' It presupposes respect for the fundamental rights that flow from the dignity intrinsic to the person.' (CCC 1944)

DEFINITIONS

Harassment is unwelcome and unwanted conduct that discriminates against, humiliates, offends or intimidates another person, including bullying, belittling, threatening, victimising and abusive behaviour, and which is based on any of the discrimination factors including gender, race, disability and age.

Sexual harassment is any unwelcome sexual advance, unwelcome request for sexual favours or other unwelcome, sexually-orientated behaviour. A person is taken to have sexually harassed another if they have made an unwelcome request for sexual favours or have engaged in other unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature, and

- the object of the advance has been disadvantaged in some manner regarding his/her employment or work or
- the object of the advance believes that rejection or refusal of the advance/proposal/request/suggestion would disadvantage him/her in any way in connection with his/her employment or work.

Sexual harassment can take many different forms and includes physical contact, verbal comments, jokes, propositions, the display of offensive material or other behaviour which creates a sexually hostile working environment. If the interaction is based on mutual attraction and is consensual, welcomed and reciprocated, it cannot be construed as sexual harassment.

Racial harassment is any threat, abuse, insult, taunt or other offensive behaviour directed at a person's race or characteristic that relates generally to their race, such as nationality, ethnic background, skin colour, language proficiency (or lack thereof) or physical feature/s. As is the case for sexual harassment, racial harassment applies to people who believe they have been disadvantaged in some way because they have made it clear that they objected to such behaviour or who reasonably held a belief that they might have been disadvantaged if they pursued this course of action.

Disability harassment is defined as discrimination or harassment against a person on the basis of one or more of the following characteristics:

- total or partial loss of the person's bodily or mental function
- total or partial loss of part of the body
- the presence in the body of organisms causing disease or illness
- the presence in the body of organisms capable of causing disease or illness
- the malfunction, malformation or disfigurement of a part of the person's body
- a disorder or malfunction that results in the person learning differently from a person without the disorder or malfunction

- a disorder, illness or disease that affects a person's thought processes, perception of reality, emotions or judgement or that results in disturbed behaviour and includes a disability that:
 - a) presently exists
 - b) previously existed but no longer exists
 - c) may exist in the future
 - d) is imputed to exist

All other forms of unwanted and unwelcome behaviour on grounds covered by anti-discrimination legislation are dealt with as unlawful discrimination.

Unlawful discrimination means treating one person less favourably than another, in the same or similar circumstances, on any of the grounds detailed in the Equal Opportunity Act 1984 (WA).

These include:

- disability
- race
- sex/gender
- pregnancy
- marital status
- political conviction
- impairment
- family responsibility or status
- age
- religion
- gender reassignment.

Discrimination may be direct, or indirect as follows:

Direct discrimination occurs when a person receives less favourable treatment by comparison to another person in the same or similar circumstances as themselves on any of the grounds covered by anti-discrimination legislation. This includes discrimination that applies because of a characteristic that applies, or is assumed to apply, to the group to which that person belongs.

Indirect discrimination occurs when any rule, policy or practice is implemented that is not reasonable in the circumstances and which may, in effect, have a negative impact on a particular person or group of people.

Catholic schools are exempt from the discrimination provisions in the context of the employment of a staff member as detailed under the Equal Opportunity Act 1984 where such discrimination occurs in good faith to avoid injury to the religious susceptibilities of adherents of that religion.

Victimisation, which is unlawful under State legislation, is defined as any unfavourable treatment or threat of unfavourable treatment of a person because they have made, intend to make or have been involved in levelling a complaint of harassment or discrimination against a colleague.

Bullying is generally defined as the tormenting of others via verbal, electronic, physical or more subtle methods of coercion such as manipulation. It may include one or more behaviours over time and involve one or more recipients.

Due to the effect on the safety and health of employees and others at the workplace, bullying is considered unlawful under the Occupational Safety and Health Act 1984, and where bullying involves assault or threat of assault, it may be referred to the Police for investigation and resolution.

Workplace bullying is repeated unreasonable or inappropriate behaviour directed towards a worker, or group of workers, that creates a risk to health and safety. Workplace bullying also involves misuse of power, be it actual or perceived, and may include subtle or obvious behaviours.

There are two main types of workplace bullying.

Overt bullying may include, but is not limited to:

- the use of abusive, insulting or offensive language
- behaviour or language that frightens, humiliates, belittles or degrades, including criticism, that is delivered via yells and screams
- derogatory comments about a person's appearance, lifestyle or their family
- teasing or repeatedly making a person the brunt of pranks or practical jokes
- deliberate attempts to isolate a worker/s from others
- spreading destructive gossip and rumours about a person/s
- physical assault or threats.

Covert bullying may include, but is not limited to:

- setting unreasonable timelines for task completion or constantly changing deadlines
- constantly setting tasks that are below or beyond a person's skill level
- ignoring or isolating a person
- deliberately denying access to information, consultation or resources required for task completion.

 - an individual staff member
 - a group of staff members
 - a student or group of students over the age of 16 (only relates to sexual harassment as per the Australian Government Sex Discrimination Act 1984)
